COMPANY ABSTRACT

For nearly 30 years, Trinity Consultants has assisted industrial facilities nationwide with myriad environmental issues. Our regulatory compliance services include air permitting, air dispersion modeling, control technology analysis, water quality permitting, client advocacy, and compliance auditing. As companies strive not only to meet regulatory requirements but also to adhere to them over the long term, we help facilities monitor and report regulatory compliance.

The complexity of the regulatory requirements and the ramifications of noncompliance place a premium on developing effective environmental management practices. We help clients efficiently achieve their environmental management goals by providing support for environmental management system implementation, business sustainability initiatives (including global climate change), environmental asset management, and due diligence.

Trinity's global climate change services entail working with progressive companies to develop global climate change policies, create a baseline, and target emission reductions as part of their business sustainability initiatives. We have assisted various clients in this effort, working on projects ranging from climate change strategy development for a specific facility to greenhouse gas inventory development for a company with over 300 sites.

Trinity also provides training for environmental professionals, annually offering nearly 200 environmental training courses taught by Trinity experts in each field. Our climate change-related courses include Managing Climate Change Risk, Integrating Sustainable Development Concepts into Operations, and Managing Emissions Assets.

With highly skilled consultants in 16 offices nationwide, Trinity Consultants provides turnkey environmental consulting services to help industrial facilities achieve their environmental and related business objectives.
